

REGULATORY AFFAIRS SPECIALIST - NOTIFIED BODY

HOME-BASED ANYWHERE IN EUROPE WITH LIMITED TRAVEL

THE COMPANY:

Ready to try something a little bit different? This is a great opportunity for someone with strong regulatory project management experience in medical devices!

Join a mid-sized notified body where you can make your mark and become a true expert in MDD & MDR. This is a brand new role which brings together project management and co-ordination skills, the chance to work closely with clients and interface with product experts and auditors. If you are looking for a new position that will provide you with a good work-life balance and give you the chance to build strong relationships with internal and external partners, then we may have the perfect opportunity for you.

As regulatory affairs specialist, your role will be to coordinate CE marking projects between manufacturers, auditors and product assessors. You will act as the interface for medical device manufacturers, from start-ups all the way up to global corporations, and product assessors. You can expect to be amongst the first to see the newest, cutting edge technology and really become a true expert in the new regulations.

AS REGULATORY AFFAIRS SPECIALIST YOU WILL:

- Coordinate delivery of certification services from the notified body
- Direct the IVDD/ CE MDD certification scheme
- Receive training and gain in-depth knowledge of regulations
- Direct projects, allocating resources and jobs to different parts of the project
- Drive and support client regulatory enquires and projects
- Serve as interface between medical device manufacturers and product assessors

Expectations:

If you have a background in regulatory affairs project management within a medical device manufacturer, you will be able to really push yourself, applying your existing skills in a brand new context.

- Bachelor's, Master's or PhD in relevant science or engineering
- 4+ years experience in medical devices, managing projects
- Strong interpersonal and communication skills

We'd love to hear from you!
